THE chief topic of conversation among the smart set of Honolulu during the past week has been the approaching New Year's Ball, which will be given this evening at the Moana Hotel. Numerous dinners have been planned at the Moana to precede the dance. Ernest Kaai's famous quintette club will play during dinner and afterwards for the dancing. The modistes have been busy for the past week, fashioning beautiful gowns for the fair sex, to be worn on this occasion. A large aggregation of society folk will gather to watch the Old Year out and the New Year in.

Plans for Floral Parade.

With the Christmas season practically out of the way, the Floral Parade is now beginning to receive attention from the society women of the city; in fact the 1911 parade is receiving much more attention already than any previous parade. The number of automobile entries already promised is almost that of any previous year, being now in the neighborhood of 40. The Automobile Committee, which is composed in part of prominent ladies of the city, is, however, out for at least 100 decorated cars in line, and with the best of prospects that they will succeed in their expectations.

It is understood that the San Francisco Shriners will bring with them a dozen to 20 automobiles, and he committee has already taken up the matter of having these cars decorated and in line for the parade.

Word has also been received from the managers of the Portland excursion, which expects to bring in the neighborhood of 250 excursionists from the Rose City by the S. S. Queen hat one or more entries in the parade are expected to represent the Oregon city. Portland with its rose festival each June is in a position to supply a float which will rank high in artistic worth.

from Puget Sound has already been heard from in connection with the same matter, and in all probability will be represented in the parade.

Mrs. Rose Davidson, who has charge of the Princesses section of the parade, has had assurances from all of the islands that they will be well represented this year. The most recent island to be heard from is Molokai. While the Princess from this island has not yet been named, Mr. George P. Cooke has promised Miss Davidson that a representative will be secured, together with an escort of six, and that mounts and costumes will be provided for all. In fact, Alfred Carter's splendid white horse has been secured for Molokai's Princess.

The withdrawal of Mrs. Kalama as representative of Maui in the Princesses Section will be quickly remedied, and it is expected that some time during the coming week another appointment will be made by the Maui Chamber of Commerce. There are a number of eligible young women for this position attending school in Honolulu, and it is quite possible that one of these will be given the honor of representing the Valley Isle in the parade.

Kaui will probably soon announce her Princess. The matter is at present in the hands of W. H. Rice.

As previously announced, Oahu's Princess will be Miss Libbie Peck of Honolulu, while Hawaii will again be represented by Miss Wilhelmina Weight, a charming rider who made a splendid impression in last year's parade.

Mr. and Mrs. Hagens' Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. C. Hagens entertained a number of their friends in a delightful manner Christmas eve. This function was in the nature of a dinner. The beautiful home of the Hagens in Kalihi was attractively decorated with Christmas greenery, wreaths and Hawaiian holly berries. The dining room was decorated entirely with poinsettias and palms. The large circular table was massed with scarlet poinsettias, maile and tulle. Covers were laid for eighteen. The favors for this affair pertained to Christmas. Some of the dainty gifts caused much merriment. On this occasion the hostess looked stunning in a Parisian frock of red, which suited her brunette type of beauty. Mrs. William Williamson looked beautiful in a silk robe, in the new tomato shade. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Hagens, Mrs. Alice Brown, Miss Keleke, Mr. and Mrs. William Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Along, Mr. and Mrs. J. Morton Riggs, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. High, Miss Violet Makoe, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Damon, Mr. and Mrs. James Dougherty, Mr. Marshall, and others.

Luncheon at the Country Club.

Mrs. Charles Atherton entertained Thursday at luncheon, in honor of Mrs. Z. K. Myers. This function was given at the Honolulu Country Club. The large round table was decorated with Mammion Cochet roses. A tall cutglass containing these flowers was placed in the center of the table. The place cards were decorated with hand-painted butterflies. The dainty almond dishes were fashioned out of delicate pink cardboard, with the covers ornamented with dainty butterflies. Among those seated at table were Mrs. Charles Atherton, Mrs. Z. K. Myers, Mrs. George Angus, Mrs. William Richards Castle, Mrs. W. W. North, Mrs. Frederick Jewett Lowrey, Mrs. James Kennedy, Mrs. E. W. Jordan, Mrs. Lackland, Mrs. Marston Campbell, Mrs. R. R. Reidford, Mrs. Joseph Gilman and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Low's Xmas Party. Captain and Mrs. Low entertained the U. S. Marine Corp officers and their wives Monday afternoon at their home in Nuuanu Valley. This beautiful home was brilliantly decorated with holly berries, Christmas greens and maile. The drawing-room—where the Xmas tree was placed, was especially attractive. From this tree dainty and pretty gifts were detached and distributed among the guests. Punch was served during the afternoon from a large punchbowl, the base of the bowl being decorated with holly. Between the hours of four and five a buffet tea was served. A number of the officers assisted the hostess in dispensing tea. Among Captain and Mrs. Low's guests were Major and Mrs. Neville, Captain and Mrs. Marv, Captain and Mrs. Ramsey, Lieutenant and Mrs. Willis, Lieutenant and Mrs. Ross Kingsbury, Miss Katherine Stephens, Miss Lydia McTucker, Lieut. Kilgore, Lieut. Parsons and Lieut. Blair.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Tenney Peck's Dinner.

One of the most elaborate dinners of the week was the violet dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. L. Tenney Peck Thursday evening at their beautiful home on Wilder Avenue. The beautiful table was banked with large, fragrant purple violets, the place cards were beautiful affairs, having been purchased in Paris during Mr. and Mrs. Peck's recent sojourn abroad. These cards were ornamented with violets, thus contributing to the general color scheme. Among those who enjoyed Mr. and Mrs. L. Tenney Peck's hospitality were Captain and Mrs. Cowles, Miss Cowles, Mr. and Mrs. William Richards Castle, Miss Beatrice Castle, Judge and Mrs. Kingsbury, Mrs. Newton Locke and Mr. Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. Holloway's New Year's Party.

A large congregation of society folk will gather at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holloway to "Watch the old year out and welcome the new year in." Great preparations have been made for this event. About forty guests will be present.

Christmas Dinner at the Moana.

A number of young bachelors who are residing at the Alexander Young Hotel, were hosts at an elaborate dinner which was given Christmas evening at the Moana Hotel. Covers were arranged for sixteen. The guests were seated at a large circular table, at which the table was decorated with cut glass, glittering silverware and dainty china. The center of this beautifully appointed table was decorated with a fancy willow basket filled with American Beauty roses. At the corners of the table were placed candelabra decorated with rose colored silk shades, the light from these numerous candles shedding an effulgence over the assembled hosts and their guests. At the conclusion of the dinner coffee and liqueurs were served on the spacious lanais of the hotel. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, Miss Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Monahan, Mr. Monahan Jr., Miss Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mr. Joseph Drake, Mr. Lehman, Mr. Whipple Hall, Mr. McCreary, Mr. Tozer, and others.

Musical at Judge and Mrs. Ballou's.

Wednesday evening, Judge and Mrs. Sidney Ballou will be at home to their friends at their home in Nuuanu valley. This affair will not be an invitational one, for the numerous friends of this young couple will be welcome. This is an old-time custom for the Ballous to be at home on the first Wednesday evening of every month. On these occasions good music is always heard, for Mrs. Ballou is a gifted musician, and has the art of securing the best of musical talent. The programs are impromptu, and most of the artists are personal friends of the hostess. These affairs are always anticipated with a great deal of pleasure by the Ballous' coterie of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Riggs' Dinner.

One of the most enjoyable Christmas dinners of the season was the one given Christmas day by Mr. and Mrs. J. Morton Riggs at their home on King street. Red satin streamers intermingled with holly berries formed the central decoration. Covers were arranged for ten. The place cards were attractive Christmas mementos. Among those who enjoyed Mr. and Mrs. Riggs' hospitality were Princess Kawannanaka, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. C. Hagens, Mr. and Mrs. William Williams, Mrs. Henry of San Francisco, California, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Along, and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Damon's Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Giffard and Mr. and Mrs. Rice were the guests of honor at a dinner which was presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Damon, at their beautiful home on Thurston avenue. After the dinner the host and hostess and their guests attended the informal hop that was given that evening at the Alexander Young hotel.

Mrs. Klamp's Luncheon.

Thursday Mrs. Frederick Klamp entertained at luncheon for a number of intimate friends. The table was attractive in pink roses and violets. The place cards—miniature aeroplanes filled with violets—were much admired. Among those seated at this exquisitely appointed table were Mrs. Frederick Klamp, Mrs. Cowles, wife of Captain Cowles, commandant of the U. S. Naval Station, Miss Cowles, Mrs. Selden Kingsbury, Mrs. L. Tenney Peck, Mrs. Charles Bryant Cooper and her house guest, Mrs. Newby.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox's Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Cox entertained at dinner Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Herzner. Their attractive home at Waikiki was ornamented with Christmas berries, palms and hanging baskets of lace ferns. At this dinner ten guests were entertained, and enjoyed the hospitality of this charming couple.

Princess' Poi Supper.

The Princess Kawannanaka will entertain a week from today at a poi supper, which will be given in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Henry of San Francisco, Cal. This entertainment promises to be the most elaborate function that is scheduled on the social calendar for the coming week.

Christmas Dinner.

At his beautiful home at Waikiki the Hon. Cecil Brown entertained a family dinner party Monday evening. The dinner table was gay with red streamers and Christmas berries. Covers were arranged for ten, and a delicious dinner was served at seven o'clock.

New Year's Ball at Lelehu.

A New Year's ball will be given at Lelehu this evening by the officers of the Fifth Cavalry. This promises to be a gala event. Great preparations in the way of decorations are being done, and the entertainment is being anticipated by the dancing set.

Mr. Sydney Hobbs' Farewell Concert.

Mr. Sydney Hobbs, who arrived here nearly a year ago, and has created a highly favorable impression as a pianist at concerts here and at the other islands, has just accepted a position in San Francisco, and will leave for that city by the Sierra on Wednesday. His departure will leave a decided gap in the ranks of public performers in Honolulu, for his concerts have been prominent features of our musical and social life. Mr. Hobbs is not only gifted as a pianist, but is also well known elsewhere as an organist and composer; several of his songs having run into many editions. In Australia he held various important positions as organist and was also connected with the press as musical critic.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Richards have placed their large and beautiful home on Kinau street at Mr. Hobbs' disposal for a farewell recital on Tuesday evening next, the 3rd. It was at this place that the pianist was first heard here; a private recital being given on his arrival to enable the Morning Music Club and other music-lovers to meet him.

Tuesday's concert will start at 8:30. Tickets $1, can be obtained at the door. The audience promises to be a distinguished one; amongst those who have secured tickets being the Governor and Mrs. Walter Frear, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. Montague Cooke, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hedemann, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Clive Davies, Mrs. Westervelt, Mrs. Howard Hitchcock, Judge and Mrs. Ballou, Dr. and Mrs. James Judd, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Miss Carroll, Mrs. John Waterhouse, Mrs. Dr. Waterhouse, Mrs. L. McCandless, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Tenney, Mr. and Mrs. H. Focke, Judge and Mrs. Hartwell, Mr. George Cooke, Mrs. R. A. Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Marx, Mr. Du Roi, etc.

New Year's Celebration at Fort Ruger.

Major and Mrs. Timberlake will entertain the officers and wives of Fort Ruger, New Year's morning, at their charming home. The Major and his charming wife are Southerners, and believe in the old time custom of "keeping open house" on the first of the year. Among the other delicacies provided for their guests will be a large Punchbowl of delicious egg nog. The attractive quarters of the commandants will be gay with Christmas and New Year's greens.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashford's Dinner.

One of the most attractive dinners of the week, was the function given Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Ashford. The table was ablaze with roses and maiden hair ferns. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ashford, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. L. Tenney Peck, Judge and Mrs. Kingsbury, of Maui, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilder.
